

ABSTRACT

Memory integrated into a removable cartridge for an image forming device contains image enhancement data identifying an image enhancement technique. In a method embodiment, the data is read, and the image enhancement technique identified by the image enhancement data is implemented. In another embodiment, the image enhancement data includes a parameter. The image enhancement data is read, and an image enhancement technique is implemented according to the parameter.